Tidetech to integrate with Adrena

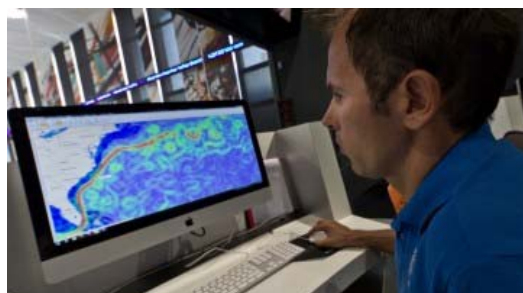

We will shortly be announcing a collaboration with Adrena, one of the leading tactical navigation software providers.

We are working with Adrena to fully integrate Tidetech with their system. Full integration means that our subscribers will be able to seamlessly download Tidetech's standard and custom products from within Adrena using their username and password in a special user interface.

Grib files will be instantly shown in Adrena's intuitive weather graphics display and can then be used in its sophisticated optimal routing system.

Adrena is often software of choice for top racing navigators and is used by many of the navigators in the current Volvo Ocean Race; it is also popular in the highly competitive French racing circuit.

Connect to our RSS feed for further news when it's announced.
